OUR 18th YEAR, No. 2 | P.O. BOX G-1, CARMEL, CALIF. 93921 | (408) 624-0133 | JANUARY 11, 1979

THIS DRAWING is an artist's concept of what one of the three two-story motel buildings proposed for the Los Laureles Lodge will look like after construction. New expansion plans for the Carmel Valley resort call for construction of 27 new units and removal of the 23 existing motel rooms. Original plans called for 94 units on the property. Farr will chair Board of Supervisors

Supervisor Sam Farr of Carmel became chairman of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors Tuesday. It is the first time he has headed the panel since he joined the board in 1976.

Farr took over the gavel from Dusan Petrovic of King City on a unanimous vote after he was nominated by Supervisor Kenneth Blohm of North County.

The chairmanship of the board has been rotated from district to district in recent years. Supervisor Michal Moore of Monterey, who was elected vice chairman, stands to succeed Farr in the post next January.

Before Farr's selection, Petrovic and new Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck were sworn in to begin new terms of office. Both were elected—Petrovic for the second time—in balloting last November.

Mrs. Shipnuck declared immediately that growth management will be her top priority item for 1979.

In accepting the chairmanship, Farr noted that the board of supervisors now has its first woman member, its first majority membership under the age of 38 and is the first board in which all the members are full-time supervisors without outside jobs.

Los Laureles Lodge submits scaled-down plan

THE OWNERS of Los Laureles Lodge in Carmel Valley have submitted a scaled-down expansion plan to the Monterey County Planning Commission.

The new proposal by lodge owners John and Aileen Bulmer calls for the motel to grow from 23 units to 72 units. A proposal to expand the facility to 94 guest rooms was rejected by the commission last May on a 6-1 vote. The panel ruled at that time that 94 units would be too many for the area.

The revised plan still calls for six guest cottages on the uphill, northern part of the property at Carmel Valley and Rancho Roads east of Carmel Valley Village. A swimming pool originally proposed for the upper property has been deleted from the plan.

At a public hearing last May, neighbors complained that the guest units and pool would create an intolerable noise level for the neighboring houses. The uphill portion of the 9.41-acre motel property adjoins several single-family homes.

THE NEW PLAN calls for retention of the existing office, dining room and bar on the property. Six new clusters of single-story guest rooms with 22 units would be added on the front portion of the property. Three two-story buildings with 44 units would be added in the middle of the land, in addition to the six guest cottages.

According to architect William Cranston, the expansion would be phased in at the rate of 10 to 20 units per year until all the existing units are replaced.

Total building coverage on the site would be 8 percent of the land, once the expansion is completed, compared to 5 percent of the property now. Parking would take up 15 percent of the property, with the remaining 7.22 acres, or 77 percent of the land, in open space.

Service trucks would enter the property from Rancho Road rather than Carmel Valley Road under the new plan, Cranston said. At the earlier hearing, a neighbor complained that additional traffic created by guests and delivery trucks would exacerbate traffic problems on Carmel Valley Road.

Ten trees would be removed during construction, with another 88 trees on the property left untouched. Total density of the proposal is 7.75 units per acre.

The original expansion plan was rejected

CV Master Plan panel may scrap point system

THE CARMEL VALLEY Master Plan Committee is unhappy with its point system for ranking subdivision proposals and may scrap the whole idea before it recommends a final version of the new master plan.

Instead, a subcommittee will investigate using policy guidelines within the plan itself to screen out less desirable subdivisions.

The point system was to be one of two cornerstones of the new master plan, along with a quota on the total number of new housing units or lots that could be created in the next 20 years.

The committee agreed in December to set a 2,500-unit limit on total development but left the specifics of the point system to be worked out later.

Three hours of debate last Thursday raised questions about whether the point system might be too rigid to be of any practical value.

'Don Pasquale' opens at Hidden Valley

Donizetti's robust comic opera, Don Pasquale, will open the Hidden Valley Opera Ensemble's fifth season Friday, Jan. 12 in Carmel Valley. Highly acclaimed for its past productions, the Opera Ensemble brings talented young singers from throughout the country to Hidden Valley for a seven-month period of intensive study, rehearsal and performance.

The opening night performance is reserved for members of the Hidden Valley First Nighter's Club who purchase a season's ticket for $60 ($30 tax-deductible) and enjoy a gala champagne reception with members of the cast and orchestra. All other performances are open to the public.

Musical director for the Opera Ensemble is David Effron who will divide his time between the local campus and the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York, where he serves on the faculty as conductor of the orchestras.

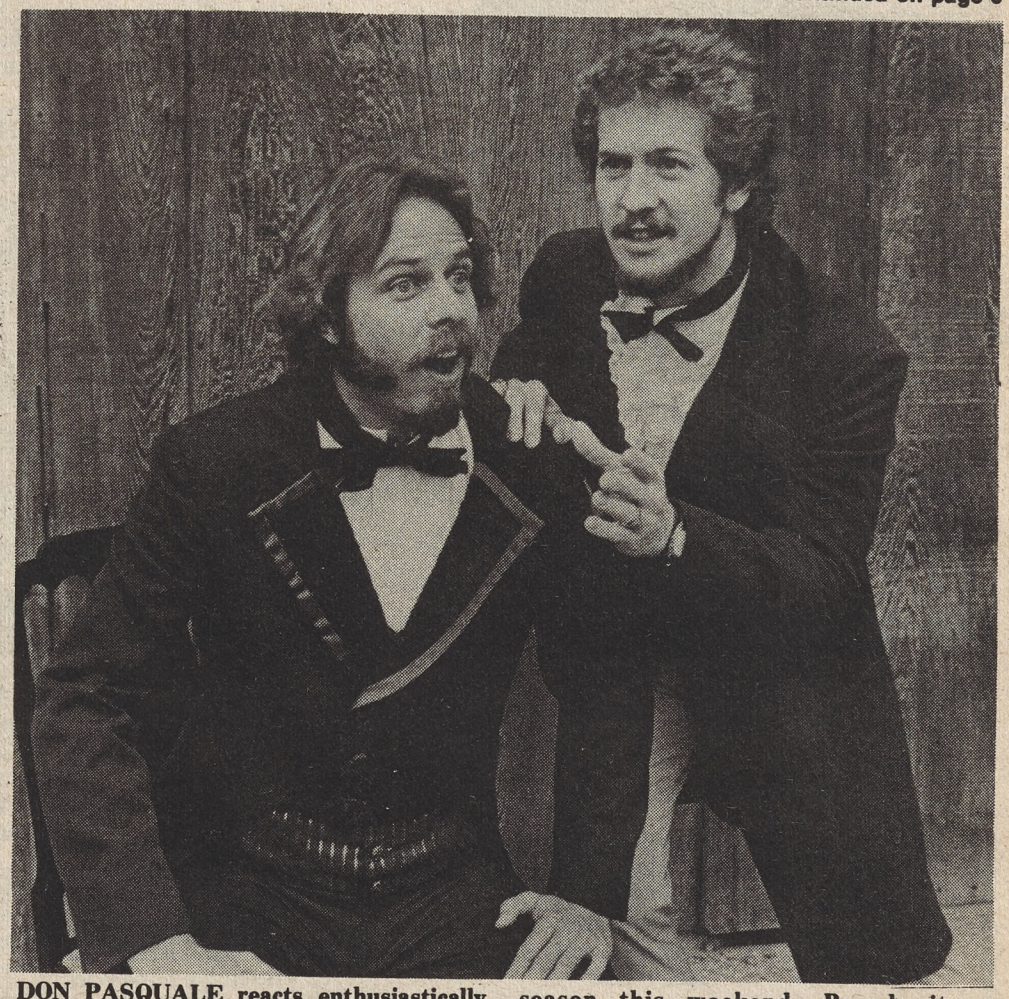
Stage director for Don Pasquale is Joseph Bascetta of New York City. Bascetta directed Christmas at Hidden Valley, a program of opera highlights performed last month by the Ensemble.

San Franciscan Jeremy Ham is designer for Don Pasquale. A student of Henry May at UC, Berkeley, Ham designed the San Francisco Opera production of Madam Butterfly last summer.

The Hidden Valley Opera Ensemble is chosen by competitive audition each year. The 20 singers undertake a regimen of dance, acting, language, diction and vocal studies in addition to rehearsals for major productions. The members live on or near the Hidden Valley campus where their schedule includes seminars, training sessions and rehearsals six days a week for seven months. The Hidden Valley Opera Ensemble was the sixth largest producer of opera in America last year.

The Hidden Valley production of Don Pasquale is slightly updated and set in the American South in the 1830s. It will be sung in English and performed with full orchestra and chorus. Performances are scheduled Friday and Saturday, Jan. 12-13 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Jan. 14 at 2:30 p.m. Don Pasquale will also be staged Jan. 19, 20, 26, 27, 28 and Feb. 2 and 3.

Season tickets, which include performances of Don Pasquale, Britten's Turn of the Screw, Bizet's Carmen and a number of "extras," are $30. Regular single-seat admission is $8 and $5 for children 14 and under.



DON PASQUALE reacts enthusiastically to Malatesta in a scene from Donizetti's opera, "Don Pasquale," which opens the Hidden Valley Opera Ensemble's fifth season this weekend. Bass-baritone Richard Fey takes the lead role; Eric Hanson is Malatesta. The opera is sung in English.

CARMEL AUTHORS Caryl Hill (left), whose grandfather was hanged in Missouri "for a crime of passion," and Deborah Weston, who has done everything from parachute jump, big-game fish and pose for photographer Cole, have published "Cows, Poets and Other Loves," a foodbook by and about Monterey Peninsula artists. (Peter Stackpole photo)

'Cows, Poets and Other Loves'

Carmel women author 'different' cookbook

Cows, Poets and Other Loves, an intriguing volume subtitled A food book by and about artists, by Caryl Hill and Deborah Weston of Carmel has been published by Three Furies Press.

Caryl was born in Carmel; Deborah adopted the area 10 years ago. Between them, they claim to know "most of the most interesting people who live on the Monterey Peninsula," and when the urge to write a book tugged at them, they boldly approached those 191 "most interesting" characters and requested a brief biography and a print-worthy recipe.

The result is a handsome and charming volume. Residents of the Monterey Peninsula, many of whom know a goodly sprinkling of the "most interesting," will flip the pages, liberally laced with the outstanding photography by our "best-known shutterbugs," and chortle with delight. Actually, it required a good measure of "chutzpah" to launch this literary endeavor!

Contributors range from cartoonists Eldon Dedini, Hank Ketchum, Frank O'Neal and Al Parker to local restaurateurs, artists (Sam Colburn, Henel Dooley, Donald Teague, Abbie Lou Williams), musicians, sculptors, photographers, craftspersons, healers, writers, politicians, entertainers (Paul Anka, Clint Eastwood and Kim Novak, of course), to dancers, jewelers and highrollers (for the record: Count Bertrand D'Avenas, Anna Beck, S. Stuyvesant "Styvie" Fish II...through Mary Shaw, Carolyn Tyson, May Waldroup—May Waldroup???) right down to Deborah Smith Weston herself!

For those who collect cookbooks, art (photography) books; in-people books, just plain attractive books, or books that provide an insight into this very special place, Cows, Poets and Other Loves is a welcome library addition.

It is available, at $7.50, at most local booksellers. And there are good recipes, too.

Remberts host two 4-H club Christmas events

THE BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS tree at the Paul Rembert home, decorated with unusual ornaments collected over the years, was the focal point during two 4-H Club Christmas events at their home, according to Boronda 4-H reporter, Greg Bennett.

Since most of the 4-H activities are centered on the young people who make up the membership, Boronda 4-H Club community leader, Mrs. Nancy Rembert thought that a potluck dinner for parents and leaders would give Boronda and Buckeye parents an opportunity to get better acquainted.

Among those enjoying the holiday food and conversation were, from Boronda: Messrs. and Mmes. Brian Ashurst, Tim Condon, Don Canham, Oliver White and Jim Johnson; also Mmes. Don Wester, Marge Bennett, and Judy Gayman.

Buckeye parents included: Messrs. and Mmes. Bill Parham, Bill Sims, Patrick Ward, Jerry Kurz, Dan Weiss; also Mmes. Dolores Jackson, Tina Ganger, and Ruth Pryer.

The second event was the December general Boronda 4-H meeting followed by a Christmas party and gift exchange. Pinatas were the highlight of the affair with members competing to break one shaped like Santa and the other, a lamb, handcrafted by Susie Bennett.

Y-Indian Guides visit Alex Onessimo

A LOCAL GROUP of Y-Indian Guides, organized through the fall recruiting efforts of the Monterey Peninsula YMCA, experienced what was the most meaningful Tribal Induction since the beginning of the youth group.

A father-son activity, based on Indian lore, the club chose the tribal name A-Chesta, reputed to be the name of the local Coastanoans. Club members met at the Baptist Church, then were transported to Green Shadows Nursing Home. Here they were given an audience with Carmel Valley's only surviving full-blooded Indian, Alex Onessimo.

Thought to be more than 100 years old, Onessimo was born in the Robinson Canyon. He went to work at the age of 14 for Tom Meadows who came from England to purchase Valley farmland.

He spoke briefly to the boys in Spanish (interpreted by Valentine Moncirias) about his family. According to Warren Kaufman, chief of the A-Chestas, "It felt very special to be in the presence of one so old whose grandparents were born before the Spaniards came, and who is the last remaining Coastanoan Indian."

Returning to the church, "Big Owl" (Mike Tancredi of the Mid-Valley Fire Department) demonstrated the safe building of a great Council Fire, and the ceremony began with a prayer to the Great Spirit. Chief Warren "Running Bear" Kaufman discussed the aims of the tribe and the Indian nation, as he presented each Brave with their Tribal feathers. Assistant Chief "Screaming Hawk" (Fred Herro) applied their war paint—white for purity, black for bravery.

War whoops and tom-tom beating were performed around the camp fire in a ceremonial dance. The ceremony closed with thanks to the Great Spirit for the beauty of Carmel Valley and their new brotherhood.

A tribal hot dog cookout followed before the fire was extinguished and the young and old braves returned to their teepees.

Wednesday Circle to meet

MRS. DALE (BERYL) MICHAEL will be hostess of the Wednesday Circle of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula when they meet Jan. 17 at 12:30 p.m. in the church library.

New members are always welcome. Everyone is asked to bring a No-host sandwich. Coffee and dessert will be served.

Lone parents plan folk theme party

An American folk theme house party is planned by members of Parents Without Partners Saturday, Jan. 13.

Party-goers are asked to wear Western apparel and bring a musical instrument to add to the festivities. Meet at June Holder's home, 2800 Forest Hill Blvd., Pacific Grove at 8 p.m. A donation of $2 for members and $2.50 for guests is requested.

Parents Without Partners is a non-sectarian organization dedicated to the welfare of single parents and their children. Annual membership dues are $14; guest privileges are granted for a 45-day period.

Davenport retirement dinner

THE RETIREMENT dinner honoring Sheriff Jack Davenport is scheduled Jan. 20, 8 p.m., in the Barbara McNitt Ballroom of the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey. Tickets, at $15 per person, may be obtained by phoning the Monterey sheriff's substation 373-0613. Reservations are advised.

Bud Cook was sworn into office on Monday, Jan. 8, at a ceremony witnessed by 100 members of his family, friends and the retiring Davenport who ended a 38-year career in law enforcement.

Pearsons welcome new daughter

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEARS were anti-climactic for Carol and Woody Pearson of Carmel Valley who celebrated the birth of a daughter on Dec. 27. The Community Hospital arrival was named Alicia Christine and weighed 7 pounds 4 ounces.

She is the maternal grandchild of Dorothy and Al Fearn of Carmel and Lois and Fred Knight of Fresno. Her maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Louise Bradford of Carmel.

Gifts for Alicia were presented to Carol at a Pink and Blue luncheon hosted before the baby's birth by Rosalyn Kidder and Diane Eagle of Carmel.

the Carmel River, contributing open space land or money for parkland purchases, protecting endangered plant and animal species and similar criteria.

Projects which degraded the environment would lose points. All projects coming before county planning authorities would have to receive a minimum of 50 points (out of 100 possible) even to be considered for approval.

But when it came down to the specifics of how the point system would work, the committee members had problems.

"This really turns me off," said Mary Ann Matthews. "I just don't think you can have an absolute standard."

"We're painting ourselves into a corner by making the points too precise," agreed Jerri Foote.

MEL STECKLER said the system might be breaking down because it is being asked to accomplish three competing goals: set a minimum cutoff level before a development can be considered; give a basis for discriminating among competing applications; and focus attention on features the master plan wants to encourage.

Steckler said the first two concerns may be interfering with the third because "the values of the committee are defying reduction to a system of points."

"We started out to make the important quantifiable and have ended up making the quantifiable important," he said.

Jack Van Zander said the advantage of a point system is that it "eliminates the politics of land planning" by measuring each proposal against an objective yardstick.

The proposed point system, he added, discriminates in favor of large developments which can make tradeoffs and provide a lot of benefits.

The simple two-lot minor subdivision, he said, "is doomed" because the landowner has no public benefits to offer.

"He won't get enough points to compete," he said.

NANCY BURNETT suggested that the 100-plus policies adopted by the committee could serve as guidelines without being put in the rigid form of a point system.

She, Steckler and Chris Keehn will serve on the subcommittee trying to make the policies work instead of a point system. They will report to the full committee on Thursday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m. at Carmel Valley Manor.

The committee wants to complete its work in time to get the draft of the master plan to the Monterey County Planning Commission by March 1. That is the cutoff date for the plan to be considered by the county Board of Supervisors in July.

If they miss the March 1 deadline, the earliest the master plan could be adopted would be November 1979.

THE LODGE has been zoned for motel use since 1947 and has been owned and operated by the Bulmers since 1967. The buildings on the property are original ranch structures which have become impossible to maintain, Cranston said. The expansion is designed to upgrade the property by replacing those old units, he said.

The Bulmers have collected 73 signatures of lodge visitors, primarily Carmel Valley residents, in support of the expansion request.

Hopes hospice effort will spread over country

Dear Editor:

Having watched my mother die in the typical grim atmosphere of a Los Angeles hospital, I can imagine the great improvement her care might have had and what comfort to her family, had there been such an organization of volunteers as the Hospice, so ably spearheaded by Mrs. Edith Alt.

The childhood story of my grandmother's four-year bout with bleeding breast cancer gives me new appreciation for my aunt's devoted and sole care of her, as a result of testimony heard before the state Regulator of Health Care last month.

It is to be hoped that this experiment in Carmel Valley will be properly funded and spread all over the country.

Too many builders

Dear Editor:

Of the young couples interviewed by Ken Peterson in his article about the ways in which young families cope with expensive housing costs in Carmel Valley, a very high proportion seem to be contractors or builders.

Hmmm. Who was it that said, "If you're not part of the solution, then you're part of the problem?"

OFFICIAL CONCERN EXPRESSED ABOUT ACCIDENTS ON C.V. CURVE

CLIMAXED BY a double fatality last December, eight major accidents have occurred in the last three years on the Carmel Valley Road on what is locally known as Porter's Curve.

Officials from the county road department said that most cars in the accidents were exceeding the 35 mph speed limit and indications were that more than half the drivers had been drinking.

ST. DUNSTAN'S TO BECOME PARISH

St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church on Robinson Canyon Road will become a Parish Feb. 2, when the Diocese convenes in San Francisco.

Requirements for the change have been met and the church will graduate from a mission to a self-supporting Parish, according to Rev. James Brock. He will now be known as a rector instead of vicar.

The church in Carmel Valley was established in 1955 when parishioners met at the Community Center. A year later three acres were purchased and a church erected near the Farm Center.

CARMEL VALLEY PUBLICIZED IN TWO MAGAZINES

The beauty of Carmel Valley has been publicized in two California magazines this month.

San Francisco has published a history of the Valley dating back to land grants in the 1800s. It traces the area's development from the laying out of the contoured Robles del Rio subdivision by Frank Porter to the recent opening of Bernardelli Square in the Village.

California Home depicts the Valley from an architectural viewpoint. The condominiums of the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club are illustrated in a full-page layout.

FREE PUBLICITY NOT WANTED (EDITORIAL)

The whole Valley has received a great deal of unsolicited publicity from the San Francisco and California Home magazines.

We hope not too many people will take to the freeways with open checkbook in hand to buy a piece of this paradise; the community could ill-afford the inflation, whether it is dollars or people.

Specific plan for Odello proposal given to County

A plan to permit development of a resort hotel and condominiums on the Odello East property while preserving 71 percent of the land in agriculture and open space uses has been recommended to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors by a private consulting firm.

The draft Specific Plan will be reviewed by the county Planning Commission before it is returned to the supervisors for final adoption this spring.

The details of the recommendation are similar to the Odello Agricultural Land Preservation System (Odello ALPS) proposal for the 134.2-acre parcel submitted by the Odello family to the county last May.

Plan envisions 200-room hotel and 99-unit condominium development

The consulting firm of Williams, Platzek and Mocine was hired by the county in October to prepare a Specific Plan for development of the property. Its report back to the board recommends a plan that would include:

- A 200-room resort hotel on 12 acres.
- A condominium development totaling 97 units.
- A farmer market fronting on Highway 1 with shops, an open air market and picnic area.
- Open space with trails along 25 acres or a 25-acre corridor on the Carmel River.
- Permanent preservation of 70 acres in agricultural production.

The Odello family had proposed five acres for the farmers' market, 22.5 acres for the hotel and a 12-acre area at the far eastern end of the property for a Carmel-Monterey County corporation yard and trash transfer station.

The family and their land use consultant, Carmel architect Sabastian Bordonaro, received the draft Specific Plan Tuesday morning and would not comment on it until they have a chance to review the material.

The county's consultants recommended adoption of their development alternative "if the proposed uses can be found consistent with Coastal Act Policies and the county's Local Coastal Program now under preparation."

Other alternatives discussed in the report but rejected by the consultants include: preservation of all the land in agricultural uses; preservation of 85 acres in farmland, 25 acres of riverside habitat and development of a farmers' market and model farming community on the rest of the property. This would permit construction of 47 homes around the perimeter of the land and use of innovative organic farming techniques and self-sufficient energy resources in the homes.

The final alternative studied is a modification of the Three Ranches Plan suggested for the property in 1966. That plan would permit 156 homes and condominiums plus a 200-room hotel on the property, preserving only 25 acres along the river and none of the agricultural land.

The Odello property lies south of the Carmel River and east of Highway 1. Comprising 134.2 acres, it is within the coastal zone and would be subject to the policies of the 1976 Coastal Act. The act emphasizes preservation of farmland and support for housing and visitor accommodations aimed at low- and middle-income families. The consultant recommends that at least 10 to 15 percent of the housing and rental units be targeted for those income groups.

The draft Specific Plan also notes that improvements to—possibly construction of the Hatton Canyon Freeway—Highway 1 would be needed to increase its capacity if the development is approved.

The property should annex to the Carmel Sanitary District for sewer before construction is approved, the report also states.

•

THE SUPERVISORS will decide next Tuesday when the planning commission must report back to them with a recommendation on the Specific Plan draft.

The supervisors have final authority in approving the Specific Plan.

Only one other Specific Plan has been approved in Monterey County to date. It is for the Carmel Valley Ranch development. The board has authorized preparation of another Specific Plan in the Toro area along Highway 68 between Monterey and Salinas.

The Odello family has long owned the property, which has been planted in artichokes or row crops since the 1920s. The family sold the western 155 acres of its property to the state Department of Parks and Recreation in 1974. They are leasing the land for artichoke farming until the state decides what type of park development to put on the land.

Marriott plans delayed

Any new hearings on the proposed Rancho Canada Marriott Lodge project will have to wait until February. The hotel developers were unable to submit plans for a scaled-down version of the hotel in time for a Jan. 31 review before the Monterey County Planning Commission.

County Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon said Monday that the Winthrop Carmel, Inc. group is still working on a revised hotel proposal. Monday was the deadline for getting items on the Jan. 31 planning commission agenda.

The hotel was originally envisioned as a 376-room resort on the westerly 25 acres of the Rancho Canada Golf Course at the mouth of the Carmel Valley.

But the project's proponents got a clear signal from the Monterey County Board of Supervisors last fall that a hotel that large would never win board approval. The supervisors voted 3-2 to declare that some sort of hotel might be an appropriate land use for the property. Supervisor Michal Moore, voting with the majority, added that he would oppose the specific 376-room proposal.

Slimmon said he was told in later discussions with the hotel developers that they plan to reduce the size to 176 rooms and design the project so that all 36 holes of the golf course would be retained.

The present plans would eliminate nine holes of the west course.

The hotel proposal has generated massive public opposition, with more than 2,000 signatures gathered on petitions asking that the hotel be rejected by county planning officials.

Padres routed by sharp-shooting P.G.

By JAY POSNER

EVEN NEW uniforms couldn't help Carmel High Friday night as the Padres were routed 66-47 by a sharp shooting Pacific Grove High team.

Earlier in the week, Robert Louis Stevenson School defeated the Padres 51-36 in the Mission Trail Athletic League opener for both teams.

Carmel will travel to Hollister tomorrow night before returning home Tuesday, Jan. 16, to play Palma High at 8 p.m.

Against P.G., the Padres jumped out to an early 8-6 lead, but after that, the Breakers were in complete control.

Led by Mark Carter and Randy Cobb, Pacific Grove outscored the Padres 25-2 in the next 10 minutes to take a 31-10 lead with 1:25 remaining in the half.

During that stretch, the Breakers took advantage of their own hot shooting and some horrible playing by Carmel to take the insurmountable lead.

Time after time, the Padres would either miss a shot or turn the ball over, and Pacific Grove would go down the court and work the ball inside for an easy two points.

There was some bad officiating in the game, but the Carmel offense was so inept, that the calls didn't really hurt the Padres.

Carmel coach Joe Feldeisen substituted freely throughout the game, looking for the right combination of players to try to score some points, but no matter who played, Carmel still had trouble scoring points, which made it difficult for them to make up large deficits.

Three substitutes did play well against P.G.: forwards Greg Raynes and Mike Wecker, who scored 10 and six points, respectively, and guard Brent Eagling, who scored five points in only four minutes of playing time.

Mark Carter scored 22 points to lead the Breakers, while Raynes and John Lucido scored 10 points each to pace the Carmel scorers.

Last Wednesday against RLS, the Padres played well for three quarters, but the Pirates outscored Carmel 22-10 in the last nine minutes of the game to earn a 51-36 victory.

Carmel gave the Pirates, who are favored to win the MTAL title, a tough fight, but in the end, it was the shooting of Tony Woods and Chris Ware that gave the Pirates the win.

Woods had 20 points and Ware chipped in 10 for RLS, while Art Strum and Lucido scored 13 and 10 points, respectively, to lead the Carmel scorers.

IN GIRLS' BASKETBALL action, the Padres lost their first game of the season Friday to Pacific Grove. The final score was 45-39.

Earlier in the week, Carmel demolished RLS 57-14, and routed San Lorenzo Valley 54-33.

In the game at P.G., the Padres trailed 25-16 at halftime, but they cut the margin to 34-30 early in the fourth quarter. However, in the next five minutes, the Breakers ran off nine unanswered points to take a 43-30 lead with 2 minutes remaining.

But Carmel didn't quit, as baskets by Dana Hunter, Tracy Hydorn, and Aileen Kelly brought the Padres back to within six at 43-37 with 1:30 left in the game. However, Carmel was to get no closer as two late turnovers sealed the Breaker victory.

In Carmel's other two games last week, Miss Thamer scored a total of 43 points, while Miss Hunter and Kathy Selle added 23 and 18 points, respectively.

THE CARMEL SOCCER team opened MTAL play in Salinas last Friday by defeating Palma 6-0. Bill Ruggles scored three goals, and Marco Cappelli, John Heebner and Barry McGuckin each tallied one score.

The Padre frosh-soph also defeated Palma by a score of 7-1. John Hollister scored two goals, while Vince Sturgill, Robert Kahn, Herve Laue, Dwight Spicher and Steve Hougard scored one goal each.

"SORRY, CHARLIE. We don't want horses with good taste ..."

"Oh, he looks so elegant!" exclaimed our friend as we schooled her green colt.

We smiled and made the politician's answer: we said nothing. There was nothing to say.

Elegant this colt was not. Anything but! He had learned to arch his neck a little but he had a face on the end of that neck that only a mother could love. In addition he traveled wide behind. He wallowed. He moved something like a drunken duck.

There are people in the world who just don't understand elegance. There are people who think every horse in the Rose Parade is beautiful. Some are ignorant; some are blind; some are hopeless optimists. And a few wouldn't recognize real elegance if it walked up and hit them with a dead fish.

There genuinely are elegant horses. It is a rare quality presented by a very few superior animals all of whom are owned by very knowledgeable horse owners.

One such knowledgeable horse owner assured us that all animals are totally elegant as God made them. It's only when humans start interfering with animals—pulling them apart, squishing them together—that the animals become as klutzy as humans.

Elegance in horses depends on how much a human can return to them of what God intended them to have in the first place: quality, style, an excellent way of going, and an insouciant manner called "presence." (Note to children: "insouciant" means "carefree, blithe, untroubled.")

Quality is what horsebreeders try to breed into their young stock—all that business about conformation—straight legs, well sprung ribs, well angulated quarters and a long, sloping shoulder. In addition, a quality horse has got to have a clean head and a well-defined throatlatch. Meatheads never qualify. And a horse whose jowls connect directly to his neck can only be a friend. He can never be elegant.

Mere picture-book pretty is not enough for elegance. In fact, it isn't even necessary. El Pluggo, the thoroughbred, can stand around the barnyard looking like the wrath of God. But when he pulls himself together he can be the picture of elegance. He has an excellent way of going.

An excellent way of going means that an elegant horse uses his body to move his legs, not just his legs to move his body. And he keeps his legs under him. Elegance depends a lot on hock action. Hock action depends a lot on having the horse's hind end tucked under.

It's just what the girls' gym teacher keeps telling her eighth graders. Well, mostly she tells them to stand up straight. And then there's a lot of talk about not pushing in line and washing your gym clothes once in a while. But the next most frequently used admonition is "K.Y.C.U." (Note to grown-ups: "K.Y.C.U." means "Keep your can under!"

Spraddled-out horses cannot be elegant. When eighth grade girls are described as "coltish" it means they have not perfected elegance, either.

Style is a little harder to define. Our piano teacher once defined rhythm as "pausing in the right places." That makes better sense, when you think about it, than defining rhythm in terms of hitting the notes in the right places.

A stylish horse (or person) doesn't do certain things or doesn't have certain flaws ... and the times when he doesn't do or have are exactly the right times. A horse with a sense of style is too proud to toss his head or switch his tail. He's too sensible to prance sideways when the road goes forward. Style is that extra snap to the fetlocks. It's the pause in mid-air just before touching the earth again.

When such a horse is asked to speed up he doesn't take faster steps, he opens up, he flattens out, he lengthens. Slowing down does not mean dropping out of the race. It means taking back, condensing front to rear, coming under. What the hunter/jumper people call an "adjustable" horse is a horse with style.

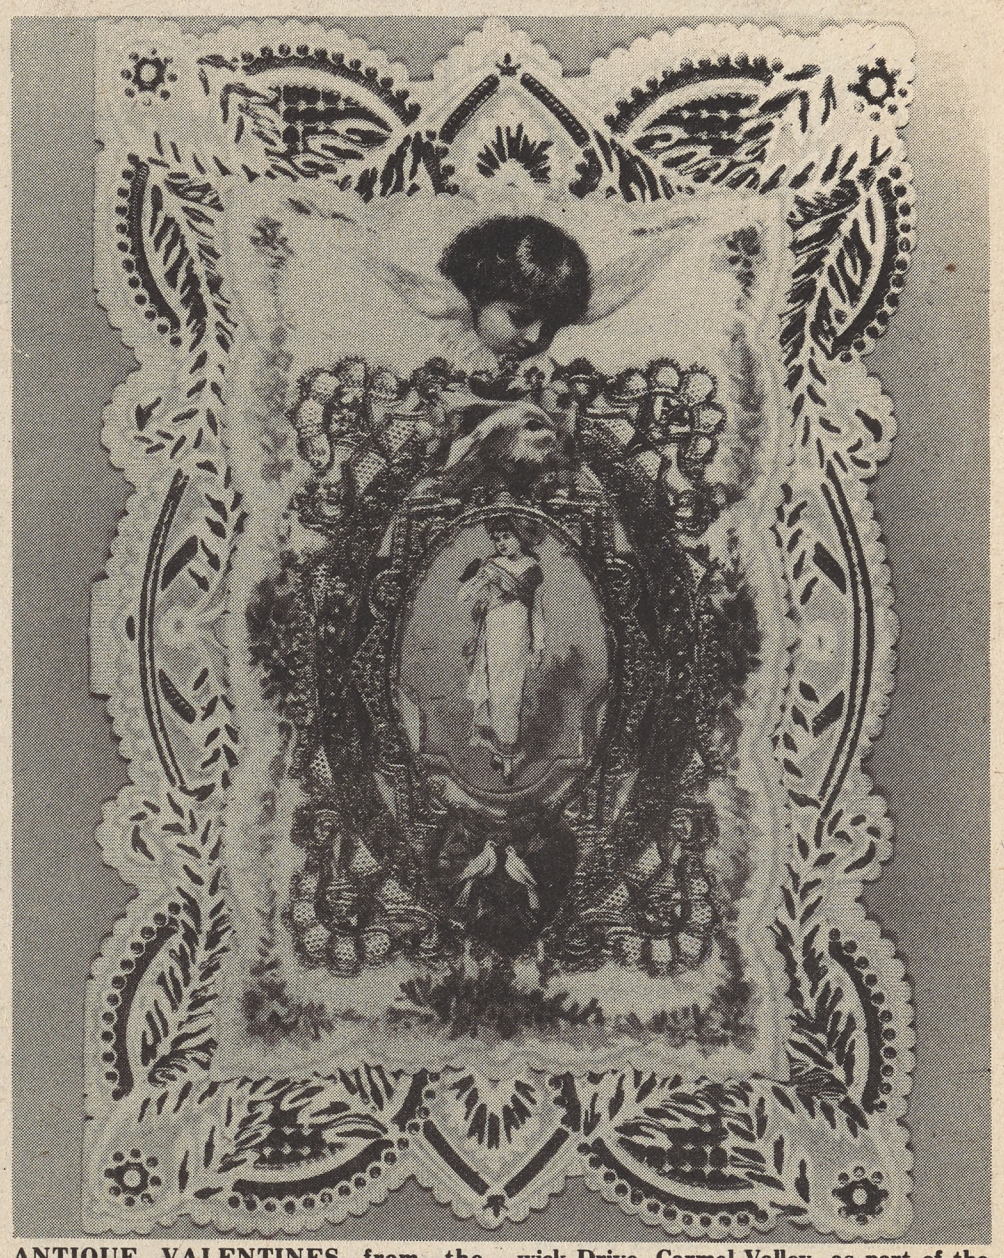
If you were a mechanical engineer or had a very large erector set, you could probably build a quality horse with style and an excellent way of going. Just get the angles right on the struts, adjust the gear ratios, stretch a shiny skin over it and hey, presto, there you are! Wind up the key and away we go!

The perfect horse is within our technological capabilities. But it would perform in a mechanical manner. Tick, tock, tick ... completely predictable. How fortunate for horse lovers that the mechanical engineers are not building horses. The engineers have been happily diverted into building BART systems, air conditioners and Ferraris. On the front of a Ferrari they put a little silver logo of a perfectly elegant horse.

In real life, the elegant horse is greater than the sum of his parts. He is not merely perfect. There is nothing mechanical about him. He brings to his every move an extra warmth, an elan, an intensity that says: "Look at me!" This is presence.

Presence makes the difference between pretty and beautiful, between common and classy, between night and day. Presence is the difference between excellence and elegance.

Excellence is what horsemen aim at. You can't reasonably aspire to more. But once in a great while, by the grace of God and a generous horse, you get elegance too.



ANTIQUE VALENTINES from the Hallmark Historical Collection will be on view Jan. 16-Feb. 16 at the Carmel Valley branch of Monterey Savings & Loan Association, Carmel Valley Road at Berwick Drive, Carmel Valley, as part of the institution's 50th anniversary celebration. Pictured is an American valentine from the Gay '90s.

Antique Valentine exhibit at Monterey Savings office

An exhibit of antique valentines on loan from the Hallmark Historical Collection of Kansas City will be on display Jan. 16-Feb. 16 at the Carmel Valley branch of Monterey Savings and Loan Association, Carmel Valley Road at Berwick Drive. The exhibition is part of the Golden Anniversary celebration for Monterey Savings.

The rare valentines date back to the early 19th century and include valentines from English, German and American publishers. Some are exquisite lace paper types, fringed and decorated; others are pull-out mechanical valentines. The famous "Penny Dreadfuls" or comic valentines are also in the collection.

The Hallmark Collection is considered the most comprehensive and priceless collection of its kind in the world.

Hours are 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and Friday until 6 p.m.

For further information, phone 625-1313.

Audubon group plans overnight excursion

An overnight excursion to Soda Lake and Carrizo Plain in the Mojave Desert and a Bird-of-the-Month meeting are planned by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society this week.

The overnight field trip to Southern California is scheduled Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 13-14.

The Soda Lake region of Southern California is a popular destination for birders because of the thousands of Sandhill Cranes, Mountain Flowers and Long-billed Curlews perennially sighted. Camping and motel accommodations are available to birders.

For departure times and reservations, phone Jo Stallard, 375-9357 or Dennis Serdehely, 394-2126.

Alcids, Auks, Murres and Puffins will be discussed by Audubon members and guests at the monthly birder's meeting Wednesday, Jan. 17, at 10 a.m., in the home of Lee Kodribski, 1027 Bayview Ave., Pacific Grove.

'The Elizabethan Lady' Sunday at Santa Catalina

The Elizabethan Lady, a program of music and literature about 16th century women, will be performed by the Elizabethan Trio Sunday, Jan. 14, at the Sister Carlotta Performing Arts Center, Santa Catalina School, Mark Thomas Drive, Monterey. The free performance begins at 4 p.m.; the public is welcome.

The program re-creates the musical and social spirit of the times with dramatic readings from Shakespeare, Donne and Queen Elizabeth. Vocal and keyboard music by Byrd, Dowland, Sweelinck and Campian will also be performed. The Elizabethan woman is examined as patron, object of beauty, companion and leader of men, mistress of the home and adventurer in matters of the heart.

The three performers have studied the Elizabethan period in depth.

Laurette Goldberg received her degree from Chicago Musical College of Roosevelt University and studied harpsichord with Ralph Kirkpatrick and Gustav Leonhardt. In addition to appearances as soloist with the Oakland Chamber Orchestra and the Cabrillo Music Festival Orchestra, she has performed extensively in the Bay Area; in 1976 she gave solo concerts through Australia.

Miss Goldberg is musical director for the Junior Bach Festival Association, teaches privately and is on the faculties of UC Berkeley, and the San Francisco Conservatory. Her most recent recording is of the Bach Leipzig Sonatas on the 1750 Arch Records label.

Rella Lossy, former director of the drama department of the East Bay Center for the Performing Arts, received her BA from UC Berkeley, and her MA from San Francisco State University. She has studied Shakespeare in Stratford-upon-Avon and done Elizabethan research in England. She has appeared with the Berkeley Stage Company, was a dramatic reader on KPFA radio for many years, as well as director, producer and actor on her own program. She studied method acting intensively with Jean Shelton, Eric Morris and Gerald Hiken. A member of the Directory of American Poets, her poetry has appeared in many magazines, and a collection of her poems was published in 1975. In 1976, she became Theater Editor of the East Bay Review of the Performing Arts, and is a founding member of the Bay Area Theater Critics Circle.

Soprano Anna Carol Dudley received her masters in music at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music and soon after moved to the San Francisco area to become one of the "leading and most musicianly sopranos." (Robert Commanday, San Francisco Chronicle.) She has soloed with many orchestras and chamber groups in this country and on tours of India and Afghanistan. A noted performer of new works, she has sung under the direction of some of the foremost composers of our time, including Dallapiccola, Berio, Pousseur, Krenek and Copland. She also specializes in Renaissance and Baroque performance, and has sung with the Houle Consort, the Goliard Players and the Couperin Consort.

THE ACCLAIMED Cleveland String Quartet will perform works by Mendelssohn, Bartok and Brahms in a concert presented by the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula, Friday, Jan. 12, 8 p.m. at Sunset Theater, Carmel.

Carmel Music Society announces annual young artist competition

The Carmel Music Society has announced its third annual Young California Artist Competition. Final auditions are scheduled Saturday, April 7, at Sunset Theater, Carmel, with the grand prize winner and selected finalists to appear in concert that evening at 8 p.m.

The statewide competition is open to all California instrumentalists between the ages of 16-28 and vocalists between 16-32. The competition offers three categories of piano, vocal and instrumental.

The $2,000 grand prize will consist of a $1,000 cash award and a contract to appear the following year on the Carmel Music Society regular subscription series as a Young California Artist for an additional fee of $1,000. Additional cash prizes may be awarded at the discretion of the judges.

According to chairman Lynwood Bronson of Carmel, the event was created to increase opportunities for California musicians to perform and compete. "Many of the musical opportunities are in New York or Texas," he said, "and there are very few events in which young California musicians can participate.

"In just two years the Carmel competition has become the third largest in the state which testifies to the need for such events," he continued. Nearly 100 applicants have entered the competition each year; several Carmel area students have been among the finalists.

Competition judges are:

Daniel Cariaga, pianist, Los Angeles Times music and dance critic;

Each entrant will submit a 25-minute tape recording which must include selections from at least three of the following periods: baroque, classic, romantic, impressionist and contemporary.

Tapes will be auditioned by a screening committee of prominent professional musicians which will select not more than 12 finalists with no more than four from any category of piano, vocal or instrumental.

Final auditions are scheduled from 9 a.m. Saturday, April 7, at Sunset Theater. The grand prize winner and selected finalist will perform in an Awards Concert that evening at 8 p.m.

'Olio Revue' on the boards at First

The Olio Revue, the best songs and skits of the Troupers of the Gold Coast, will be performed at California's First Theatre, Scott and Pacific Sts., Monterey, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

An olio is an aftershow of songs and skits that follow each full-length melodrama staged at the playhouse. A complete evening of entertainment is created by the Troupers from the "pick of the olios."

The theater, now a State Historical Monument, was originally a 19th century sailors' boarding house and saloon. In 1847 a group of Army volunteers, bored with the lack of entertainment in Monterey, presented two minstrel shows and Swan's saloon became the first building on the West Coast to have paid dramatic performances.

For reservations or more information, phone 375-4916 after 1 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday.

Multicultural Workshop here

More than 1,200 participants are expected to attend the sixth annual Monterey Multicultural Workshop, Jan. 14-17, at the Monterey Conference Center and the Doubletree Inn.

Proposition 13 and its effect on individual school districts and statewide education in general will set the tone of the workshop, which will offer five general sessions and numerous small workshop sessions Monday and Tuesday. The programs will focus on the involvement of parents, community people and educators to achieve quality education for all Californians.

Keynote speakers include: Dr. Charlie M. Knight, Associate Superintendent, State Department of Education; Judge Joseph Sorrentino, former probate judge, Los Angeles; Dr. Antonio Seveyaga, Pepperdine University, Los Angeles; Rosa Guy, author from New York; Leonard Olguin, professor at California State University, Long Beach.

Inquiries may be sent to Helen Rucker or Pearl Carey, P.O. Box 7, Seaside, Calif., 93955 or phone (408) 649-7328.

WILFRED WOLF disagrees with Jack-in-the-Box about what Aesop had in mind for his fables in a scene from the rock musical "Aesop's Falables," on stage Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 12-14 at the Hartnell College Performing Arts Center, Salinas.

'The King and I' opens Friday at Wharf Theatre

The King and I, Rodgers and Hammerstein's best-loved musical about life in the Siamese royal palace in the 1860s, opens Friday, Jan. 12 at the Wharf Theatre, Monterey.

Based on the book Anna and the King of Siam, the play describes the experiences of a proper English widow and school teacher who comes to Siam to tutor the despotic king's numerous children. The musical, which starred Gertrude Lawrence and Yul Brynner on Broadway, was also a popular motion picture starring Brynner and Deborah Kerr.

Favorite songs from the show include Getting to Know You, I Whistle a Happy Tune, March of the Siamese Children, I Have Dreamed and Shall We Dance?

The Wharf cast includes Bruce Tuthill as the King, Mercedes McCloskey as Anna, Gina Welch as Lady Thiang, Katie Leonard and Bobby Armstrong as the young lovers, Matt McDermott as Prince Chululongkorn, the king's No. 1 son, William Neish as Anna's son and Paul Petrie as the Kralahome.

The set includes the huge gong used in the original MGM film, on loan through the efforts of Wharf production assistant Jennifer Edwards.

According to Edie Karas, producer, the entire production staff for King and I is female. Director and choreographer is Gloria Elber; musical director is Kathy Nathan; set design is by Cathy Johnstone; costumes by Ellen Saunders; stage manager and assistant are Davy Perry and Kelly Saunders; and lighting is by Shawn Roth. Two men – Phill Pratt and Joe DiVincenzo – built the sets.

A preview performance is scheduled Thursday, Jan. 11 at 8:30 p.m. Regular performances will continue for eight weeks.

For reservations, phone 372-7867.

Comedy on stage at Studio

The hilarious two-character comedy, A Girl Could Get Lucky, is on stage Thursday through Sunday, Jan. 11-14, at the Studio Theatre/Restaurant, Dolores between Ocean and Seventh, Carmel. Dinner is at 7 p.m.; the play begins at 8:30. Both dinner and curtain are one hour earlier on Sunday.

Written by Don Appell in the early 1960s, the play examines the domestic conflicts of two young people of diverse backgrounds who fall in love and marry. The cultural attitudes of Penny, the sophisticated wife, and Andy, a taxicab driver, create a comedy of light-hearted squabbles that are resolved by the final curtain.

Directed by Diane Hall, the current Studio production stars Lindy Britt and Keith Decker.

A Girl Could Get Lucky will be performed through January.

For reservations or more information, phone 624-1661.

'Aesop's Falables' at Hartnell

Aesop's Falables, a rock musical by Edward Graczyk, will be presented by the Hartnell College Children's Theatre, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 12-13, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Jan. 14, at 2 p.m. in the Hartnell Performing Arts Theatre, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas.

Aesop's Falables is loosely based on a collection of well-known fables but draws new morals from the familiar tales. Ron Danko of the Hartnell drama department directed.

Special student performances will also be given Thursday, Jan. 11, and Tuesday and Thursday, Jan. 16-17, at 10:30 a.m. by reservation only.

Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. Tickets are on sale in advance at the college box office or at the door before each performance. For additional information, phone 1-758-8211.

Patience' at college

By EVE JACKLIN

THE CARMEL HIGH SCHOOL Choir will present Gilbert and Sullivan's light and witty operetta Patience or Bunthorne's Bride at the Monterey Peninsula College Mainstage Theater, Jan. 13-18. The choir raised money to fund their efforts through a bake sale and a pancake breakfast. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for students.

Director Bob Lester and accompanist Jason Anderson have been working with CHS choral musical director Tina Paradiso to put on an excellent production. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

The choir learns and performs music ranging from 16th century madrigals to contemporary songs, including compositions of some of the great masters. Students produce a winter and spring concert and perform at many schools in the area.

Teamwork is the keynote of the success of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas. The title role of Patience is double cast and will be played alternately by angelic singer Sue Morris and accomplished dancer Robin Pease.

Patience, a dairy maid, is the embodiment of wholesome, everyday English girlhood. Bob Aronson, a delightful, young and upcoming actor, adds the role of Reginald Bunthorne to his growing repertoire. Bunthorne, a fleshy poet, is a caricature of Oscar Wilde. One cannot help but see the likeness to Wilde when Bunthorne confides to the audience: "And everyone will say, as you walk your flowery way, 'If he's content with a vegetable love, why, what a most particularly pure young man this pure young man must be!'"

Mark Hudgens livens the play as he assumes the role of Archibald Grosvenor. The supporting roles of Ella and the Solicitor will be portrayed by Joan Mcinich and Scott Vandergriff, respectively.

GILBERT'S WORDS are "frolicsome and free," with a puckish humor all the more mischievous because of the wistful tunes. The prelude of the opening chorus prepares the audience for the truly beautiful Twenty Love-sick Maidens We. The chorus of "rapturous maidens" is Gilbert's revenge on all the adoring ladies who prefer vicars and poets to heartier men. The maidens of the village fall helplessly in love with Bunthorne.

Patience falls in love with Grosvenor but Angela, played by seasoned actress Holly Simpson, convinces her that it is a duty to love unselfishly...that is to say unhappily. In response to this, Patience agrees to marry Bunthorne.

Adding to the confusion, Lady Jane, played by Therese Lee, the only loyal maiden follower of Bunthorne left, feels sure he will soon tire of Patience. At this point, the Dragoon officers enter the play to win back the love of their maiden sweethearts, who have been blindly following the aesthetic Grosvenor.

The Dragoon officers, Duke (Jeff Burroughs), Major (Tom "Tomas Equinus" Finkland) and Colonel Calverly (D. J. Dirk), enter dressed in outrageous copies of the poetic garb of the aesthetes. Angela and Saphir (Kathleen Williams) are touched by the Dragoons' show of devotion, and decide to return to their military lovers. But since there are three officers and only two girls in this scene, they have a tough problem to solve.

Contest open to local students

What Does JFK Mean to Me? is the title of an essay contest open to local students in grades 8-12. The contest is staged in conjunction with a production of the one-man show, JFK Lives, at the Monterey Conference Center Jan. 27.

Judges for the contest are Mark McIntire, who wrote and stars in JFK Lives; Carmel author Caryl Hill; Monterey County Supervisor Michal Moore; Richard Tyler, director of Sunset Cultural Center; and Congressman Leon Panetta.

Prizes are $75 for first place, $50 for second, $25 for third and six honorable mentions.

Essays should be no longer than 250 words and must be typed or printed clearly. They should be mailed to Essay, 6 Carlton, Monterey, Calif., 93940 no later than Monday, Jan. 15.

Jan. 12 is deadline for MPC mail registration

Students who register by mail for the spring semester at Monterey Peninsula College should have their registration forms back to the college postmarked no later than Friday, Jan. 12, according to MPC Registrar Sally Jones.

On-campus registration by appointment begins Wednesday, Jan. 10 and continues through Jan. 19 she said. Classes for the spring semester start Jan. 29.

The mail registration method is open to students who take six units or two classes or less. Students who register by appointment should come directly to the Admissions Office in the Student Services Building to make appointments and pick up registration forms. If they are unable to do so, a registration appointment may be made by calling 649-1150, ext. 337. Appointments are given on a first-come, first-served basis, Mrs. Jones said.

The spring semester registration fee is $10 for day students and $7 for evening and off-campus students. Non-residents pay a tuition fee of $46 per unit.

Faculty recital at Hartnell

The Hartnell College Conservatory of Music instructors will present a faculty recital, Sunday, Jan. 14, at 3 p.m., in the choral-recital hall, room 125 of the Performing Arts Center, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas. Admission is free.

Featured soloists include Bob Stanton, guitar; Karen King, flute; Lynn Jemison, harpsichord; Gerald Littleton, trombone; Bruce Tuthill, baritone; and Thomas McGrath, vibraharp.

Conservatory instructors are professional musicians who teach area school children various instruments through the Hartnell program.

Hot Jazz group meets Sunday

The Monterey Bay Hot Jazz Society opens its fifth year of monthly musical meetings Sunday, Jan. 14 at Moose Lodge, 555 Canyon del Rey, Del Rey Oaks, at 2 p.m.

The afternoon of live jazz will star the best professional and amateur musicians from the Monterey Bay region and elsewhere, playing traditional Dixieland for listening and dancing.

Annual memberships for 1979 are now available. The society is a non-profit educational institution; family participation is encouraged. Annual dues are $12.50 for an entire family, or $10 for an individual.

Admission to meetings is $1 for members, $2 for guests, 50 cents for children.

Food and beverages will be available at modest prices.

Hartnell Conservatory accepting reservations

The Hartnell College Conservatory of Music is now accepting registrations for the spring semester. The Conservatory provides musical instruction for students ages 4 to 21 in small, professionally taught classes.

Classes available include: guitar, jazz improvisation, woodwind ensemble, oboe, trumpet, bassoon, French horn, saxaphone and trombone. Other instruments include clarinet, brass ensemble, percussion, flute, and recorder.

Also available are lessons in orchestra, voice, piano for parent and child, Suzuki violin and Yamaha Music.

Registration fee is $30 or $15 for an additional class. Suzuki violin and Yamaha Music are $50 per class.

For class schedule and registration, call the conservatory office, 1-758-8211, ext. 254.

New Girl Scout program to be introduced at workshop

A career education program for girls 12 to 17 will be introduced at a workshop Saturday, Jan. 13 by the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council to volunteers, members and other interested youth group advisors.

Career education is a new term coined by educators in the '70s. It covers the totality of experiences through which an individual learns about and prepares to engage in work as part of a way of life.

The Girl Scout program, called Dreams to Reality, was introduced last October by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. at the National Convention in Denver. The program was developed to help adolescents in Girl Scouting develop their skills and abilities in order to make effective career choices.

The program activities are designed to encourage girls to examine career related values, interests and abilities; develop routine attitudes toward career choices for women; learn ways to solve problems creatively relating to career and family responsibilities; explore careers in their community and evaluate experiences as they relate to personal life and career choices.

The workshop will be given at the United Presbyterian Church, 112 E. Beach Street, Watsonville, from 9:30 a.m.-noon.

The workshop is free: however, advance registration is requested. Joan Elton, of Monterey, is the Program Coordinator.

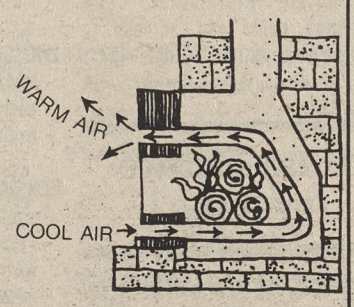
Listed
U.S. Patent 3938496

Cut the cost of heating your home.

Turn your fireplace into an efficient and economical heating system by installing a FREE HEAT MACHINE®. It captures the heat normally lost up the chimney so that you can enjoy the beauty of your fireplace and heat your house at the same time! The FREE HEAT MACHINE® will produce enough heat to warm 1300 to 1500 square feet of living area.

Here's how it works!

Cool air is drawn into the C-shaped tubes (which serve as the grate) with two-speed blowers. The air passes through the tubes, returning the warm air into the room at 160 cubic feet per minute. Smoke and gases escape up the chimney. The glass doors and draft control prevent heated room air from being drawn back into the fireplace.



The FREE HEAT MACHINE® can be heating your home tomorrow!

The unit is engineered to fit easily into your existing masonry fireplace. After assembly, you just slide it into place, connect the electrical cord, and start a fire! For more information, give us a call today.
